THE PINK BUNGALOWS
A GETAWAY EXPERIENCE

KATIE DENTON

OWNER & FOUNDER

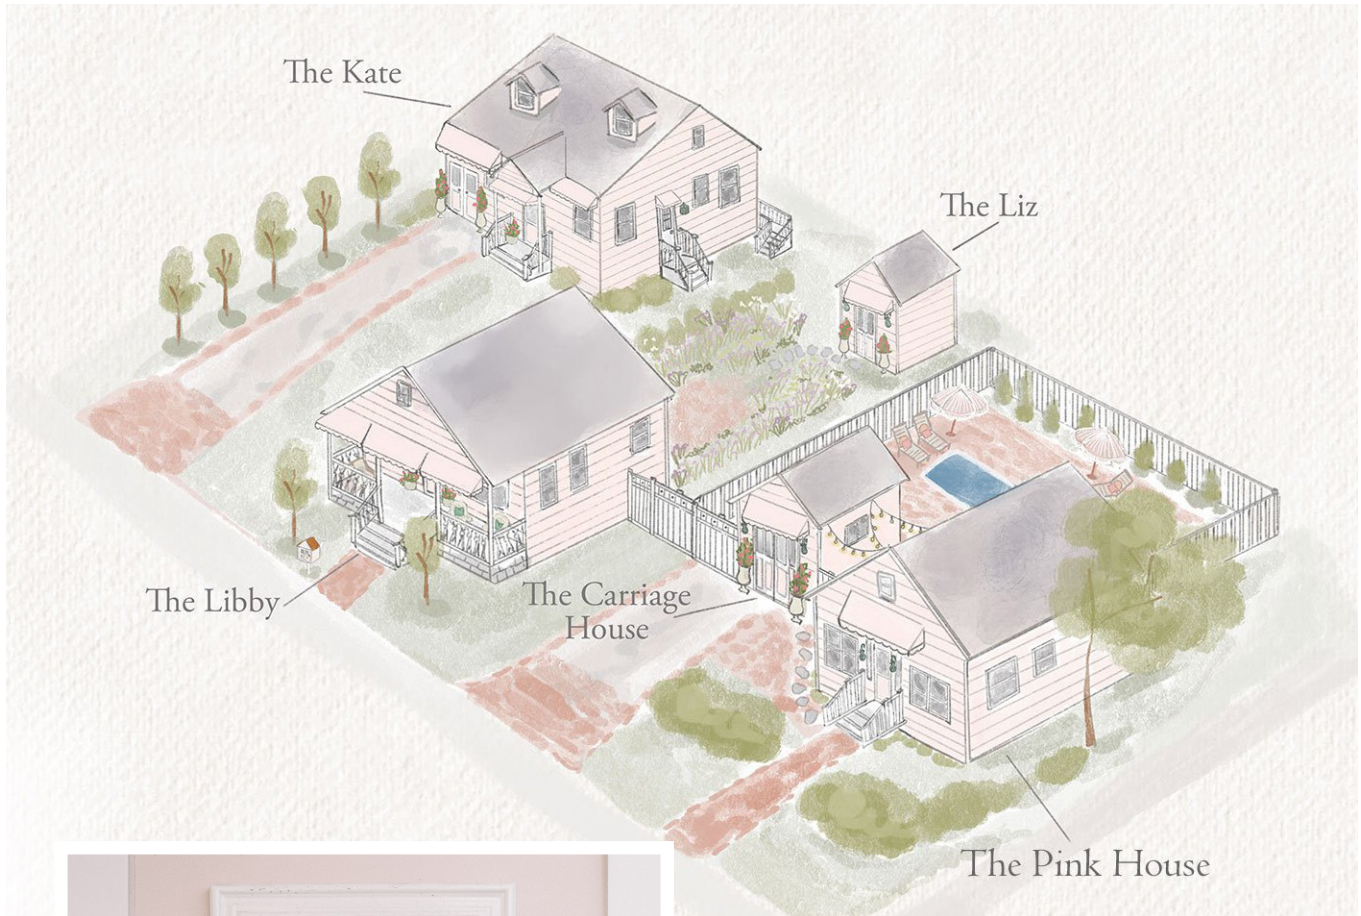

Born in Baltimore and raised in Virginia Beach, founder Katie Denton has always loved living life on the water. She grew up in the close-knit Patterson family, with parents who fostered a strong sense of family through travel and time spent together. Whether they were boating or biking, catching fireflies in the backyard or swimming in the ocean, the Patterson family lived large.

Her love of travel has persevered, and as the mother of three small children, she has an even stronger understanding of the importance of family. Katie also knows the significance of creating a timeless home. It's a skill she learned from her beloved grandmother—the ultimate hostess—who imparted her granddaughter with a love of fine linens, fresh scents and classic taste. This timeless hospitality can be seen in each Bees Nees home—in the lovely unexpected details, in the unpretentious stylishness, in the feeling that you are always welcome home.

PROPERTY MAP

Our story begins several decades and many miles ago, in a very special home on Gibson Island, located in Maryland on the Chesapeake Bay. This simple white cottage with a shingled roof and swinging screen doors was pure magic to Bees Nees owner Katie Denton, whose family spent happy summers running free by the shore.

Each Pink Bungalow tells its own story. Tucked away along the Atlantic, Bees Nees is a sanctuary of luxury; old-world charm infused with global inspiration. These cottages are yours to enjoy, explore and make memories that will last a lifetime.
